

Behind the Scenes

It takes many people to put on a performance, most of whom you will rarely, if ever, see. What you will see is the result of their hard work. When you enter the theatre you will be greeted by front-of-house staff which includes the coordinator and ushers who will help you find your seat. We also have costume designers and dressers, lighting designers and lighting technicians, choreographers, rehearsal assistants, composers, musicians and sound technicians. Then there is the technical crew who make sure that all the pieces come together for a successful performance. Not to be overlooked is the cleaning staff whose job it is to be sure the theatre is clean and ready for an audience.
